Haftorah: 1 Samuel 11:14 (page 876) chanted by Mark Goldberg
Darshan: David Oberman
Greeters: Karla and Peter Gardner

On a practical level, Moses' conflict with Korah teaches us that leadership is not limited to an elite handful. When developed, leadership can be found in all walks of life. It can be found every time a person struggles to do what is right. Legitimate, responsible leadership is found every time a necessary word is spoken, every time pain is removed from the world. Beyond that, the story of Korah's failed rebellion can provide a lesson of a different sort. Next time you complain and challenge authority, ask yourself what the motive behind doing so is? Ask yourself if you are motivated by a desire to build or to topple, to serve God, or to serve yourself? Most importantly, ask if your own style of leadership is more akin to Korah, or to Moses?

Please join us after services today for Kiddush. As we enjoy our weekly time together, consider making Shabbat even more special by sponsoring a Kiddush for our community. Call the KM office for more information.
