Pinhas took the law into his own hands. Whether you think he was justified in doing so makes for a heated debate. The tradition ultimately does not look upon him favorably. Beyond the specifics of the incident, look at the idiom, "taking the law into your own hands." Towards the middle of the Torah portion, hands are used in a very different way - a way that involves foresight and process. Moses uses his hands to pass on his leadership to his divinely elected successor, Joshua. Moses puts his hands on Joshua, indicating that his transference of authority is complete and unambiguous. As moderns, we can learn from the contrast presented by both Pinhas and Moses. Our "hands" are given to us morally neutral. It is up to us to put them to work so as to bring improvement to our broken world. May our hands take hold of Moses' example - an example that incorporates balanced, thought-out wisdom and goodness.

Join us for Kiddush in honor of our July anniversary celebrants. Happy Anniversary. Sponsor a Kiddush lunch to honor a special event or person in your life, celebrate an accomplishment, or for no special reason at all. It's a mitzvah that benefits you and your KM community. Call the KM office for availability.
